For the 1940-1970 censuses, there was no mutually exclusive categorization for Hispanic populations in the US, so one can only make assumptions about their location in the "Other" category or in the case of the 1940 census, very little meaning. The map series seeks to provide a more consistent representation of Hispanic distribution via those who answered the question about nativity of whites (pre-1970) or Hispanic origin (1980 to 2010) with "Mexican", given that births of Hispanics in the US were not exclusively Mexican in 2010 according to the Census Bureau, we feel that this provides a more meaningful inclusion of Hispanic patterns of migration and settlement.
